R-34 IS READY FOR RETURN TRIP

Big British Dirigible Expected to Make Better Time Going Home—Damage Done to Gondola Repaired—Great Crowds at Mineola Field.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mineola, L. I., July 7.—The giant British dirigible R-34, first lighter-than-air craft to cross the Atlantic, was slightly damaged early today while she was being refilled with hydrogen gas at Roosevelt field, preparatory to setting out on her return tour early tomorrow.

Sudden gusts of cold air following last night's rainstorm caused the gas in the dirigible's balloonets to contract. Then the monster airship began to settle and the hand rail of the rear gondola was smashed.

A large force of men rushed to the side of the R-34 as she rolled unsteadily under the breeze. Sixty men seized the rear gondola and steadied her until the ropes could be eased off. Then the stern of the ship was allowed to rise slowly until she was 100 feet above the surface of the ground. There she remained with great searchlights playing upon her until daylight today, when the refilling of the gas bags commenced.

The sky was slightly overcast today and sharp winds blew across the flying field, causing the air giant to ride a bit roughly at her anchorage. The weather men at the flying field were receiving reports hourly and keeping a sharp lookout for any signs of bad weather, fearing that a sudden storm might tear the R-34 from her moorings or crush her against the earth More than 100 men surrounded her at all times, and she was ready to cast off and climb to safety above the storm at a moment's notice.

The dirigible's balloonets will have received their fresh supply of gas early this morning. Mechanicians spent the forenoon replacing the smashed hand rail on the rear of the gondola and making other repairs. Before nightfall the R-34 will be ready for the 3,000 mile flight back to Scotland.

Major Scott, commander of the R-34, anticipates little trouble on the return trip.

"We shall start just before daybreak Tuesday, if the weather favors," he said. "We shall have westerly winds at our back most of the way and should make much better time than in crossing. We expect to be home again before Friday night."

The R-34 will sail down over New York immediately after her start tomorrow, soaring over the metropolis for a few minutes before heading home. Requests have come from Boston, Philadelphia and other eastern cities, for flights, but it is unlikely that the dirigible will pass over any of the towns, excepting possibly Boston, on the return home.

It is possible that the British airship will pass over the heads of President Wilson and members of the presidential party, returning home aboard the George Washington, tomorrow forenoon. The George Washington will be approaching New York harbor as the R-34 sails out.

Shortly after daybreak today a great stream of spectators began pouring into Mineola to catch a glimpse of the R-34. Thousands made their way to the flying field in the early forenoon.

SAID STANLEY SLAPPED HER

Police headquarters received a hurry call from Kingston Point this morning, just before the circus parade, to which Sergeant Phinney responded and placed one Stanley Braddon, a negro, under arrest, on the complaint of Mrs. Margaret Watson, also colored, of Poughkeepsie, who claimed that Stanley used her rough.

Mrs. Watson claims that Stanley met her on the road and because she refused to keep company with him slapped her face, and knocked her down. Stanley will have the opportunity later of telling Schirick his side of the story.

Circus Disappoints Higginsville.

Higginsville people were greatly disappointed because the Sells-Floto Circus were unable to use the lot of the Kingston Amusement Co., at the foot of North Front street. One man expended about $50 for boiled ham and other eatables for sandwiches, and had erected a stand and expected to do a land-office business. He sold a few dollars worth to the drivers and circus men Sunday who had come to the lot with wagons, and who were hungry after a railroad ride of about 300 miles from Carthage, N. Y., to Kingston.

Bigelow Improves Steadily.

The condition of Poultney Bigelow, who has been so critically ill of tetanus, continues to improve most satisfactorily. On Sunday he sat up for a short time, and Dr. Chandler hopes that if all continues to go as well with his noted patient as at present, he will soon be able to be removed to his home at Malden-on-the-Hudson. Mr. Bigelow's many friends will be delighted to learn of his steady improvement.

Auto Ran Amuck.

An East Kingston man Saturday evening lost control of his automobile at the corner of Crown and North Front streets, the auto jumping the curb and running over the sidewalk on Crown street. It struck a show window of the Kaplan store store, breaking two panes of glass.

HEADING FOR THE DE-LOUSER

Last of The Freeman Squad Probably Nearly Across the Atlantic by This Time—Hoped to Come on a Fast Boat.

Bordeaux, June 23.—St. Sulpice is not for me, after all. Not that I expected to be one of the fellows inside looking at the fellows outside. Nothing like that, but for a while it looked as though I might go there as one of the fellows outside, as there was a position there that they thought I was fitted for. It would have lasted for two or three months. But I have escaped that and tonight we go over to the de-louser at Genicart. If there are not too many ahead of us we will go through quickly and then for home!

As Genicart will close up in a few days we have to go now. We may have to come back here to work a few days longer and acquire some more cooties, but then we will go direct to the boat without waiting for a casual company. We hope to sail next Sunday, June 29, on the Chicago. I hope we make it for it is the best and fastest boat sailing from Bordeaux. If we get the Chicago we will cross in nine or ten days. If we come on another boat it will take 12 to 14 days.

It is a sure thing this time as the permanent forces for the posts here are filled, so there is no chance we will be grabbed off at the last minute to fill in somewhere, and even if there is I will not be taken as the 1917 men will get first chance to come home.

Jake, my buddy, has been gone for over two weeks and must be home by this time. For a year and a half we had palled together and I miss him. The Pioneers ought to be home by the time this letter arrives, so I will be the last of The Freeman's squad to come home, as I was the first to get over here. Some of the others saw more in six weeks than I have in a year and seven months, but I will be just as glad to get home as any of them were.

BIG CIRCUS HAS FINE HORSES

Parade This Morning Witnessed by Many—Much Disappointment Over Switch From New Amusement Park to Stephan Street Lot.

The heavy downpour of rain Saturday night and Sunday put the lot of the Kingston Amusement Company at the foot of North Front street in such a condition that the managers of the Sells-Floto circus, after hauling their wagons from the Flatbush avenue crossing of the West Shore railroad to the lot Sunday afternoon, decided they could not use it and proceeded to the old circus lot on Stephan street, off Foxhall avenue. The ground at the Amusement Park is new and soft and it was found impossible to drag the heavy equipment of the big circus over it.

On the Stephan street lot, where the stone crushing plant of the city was formerly located, the circus put up its big top and a performance was given this afternoon and another will be given tonight. There was much disappointment over the change by the uptown merchants, and also because the parade did not go through Wall street, where a large number of people stood for an hour waiting for it to come. The parade, a very creditable one, with its three bands, its open dens of animals, camels, dromedaries, elephants, men and women riders on horseback, and pipe organ and calliope, came up Broadway to Albany avenue, to Clinton avenue and thence through Maiden Lane back to Broadway. It also went through Hasbrouck avenue to Delaware avenue and streets leading to the circus lot. The wagons and costumes were clean and the many horses fine examples of horseflesh. Broadway and Albany avenue were filled with people who saw and admired the parade.

DOLLAR PRINCESSES

London Paper Dubs Daughters Of Rich Americans.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, June 5.—(By Mail)—Under the heading "dollar princesses" the Illustrated Sunday Herald prints the following:

"Those American mothers at Newport, Rhode Island, who are looking forward with eager anticipation to a visit from the bachelor Prince of Wales in the autumn, are likely to be severely disappointed, for there is very high authority to state that the prince has not the slightest intention of visiting Newport."

Standard Oil Starts Work.

The Standard Oil Company has started the work of erecting the big tanks in which oil will be stored at their new plant in Ponckhockie. The company recently purchased about two acres of ground just off North street, and have been busy filling in the swampy ground. It is expected that the company will erect a warehouse and a garage at the new site.

Iron Cop Knocked Out.

Sunday evening the iron cop at the corner of Broadway and Railroad avenue was knocked down by a driver who made too short a turn. The cop was badly battered. The driver furnished cash bail for his appearance in court this morning.

GIVES SERVICE FLAG.

Thirty-One Stars on First Dutch Banner From Judge Clearwater.

On the 4th of July Judge Clearwater presented to the First Dutch Church a service flag in memory of the members of its congregation who served in the great world war. The flag is of heavy grosgrain silk, with crimson border and white center. It contains thirty blue stars, and one gold star, and is mounted upon a polished ash pole, surmoundted by an American eagle of gilded bronze, and a pair of gold colored silk cord and tassels. It is suspended in the eastern gallery of the auditorium, opposite the American flag presented by the judge to the church when the United States entered the war. The judge's letter presenting the flag, which was read by Dr. Leeper, the pastor of the church, from the pulpit on Sunday morning, is as follows:

July 4th, 1919.

To the Consistory of the First Dutch Church.

Gentlemen:

It affords me great pleasure on th. one hundred and forty-third anniversary of American independence, to present to the First Dutch church a service flag in memory of the members of its congregation who served in the great worldwar.

There are few, if any, churches in America the congregations of which during the last two hundred and sixty years unfailingly have rendered such unswerving, patriotic service to the American colonies and the American republic as has ours of the First Dutch, and it seems eminently fitting that in this temple of patriotism and reconciliation there should float with the flag of the nation, a flag which commemorates the services rendered by its representatives in the greatest struggle for liberty known to the world.

I am, gentlemen,
Respectfully,
A. T. CLEARWATER.

AT VAN WAGENEN STORE.

Business Hours and Vacation Policy Explained.

The L. B. Van Wagenen store wishes to announce its business hours, arranged for the accommodation of its customers, beginning today. These hours will be from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., except on Saturdays, when the store will remain open through the evenings until 10 o'clock.

The L. B. Van Wagenen Company feels that it cannot afford to discommode its customers by closing its doors for a half day during the business week, thereby depriving many people of the opportunity of making purchases which they may seriously need on the very day that happens to be the half holiday.

It is the policy of the L. B. Van Wagenen Company the rather to give its clerks and employes each and all a two weeks' vacation, with pay, so arranging these vacations as to cause the least possible inconvenience in serving its patrons with celerity and efficiency.

The store stands at all times for "service," the one ideal which the recent world war has shown all thinking men and women is best worth while; and for Kingston, Ulster county, N. Y.

St. John's Notes.

RAFALOWSKY'S STORE ROBBED

Sunday night about 12 o'clock, the clothing establishment of Herman Rafalowsky at 522 Broadway, was entered. Several suits of clothes, twelve dollars in change, jewelry, and many other articles of wearing apparel were taken. Entrance was gained through a back window by smashing the glass and then unlocking it. Hats were even taken out of the window, evidently in order to get a size that fitted. The police are working on the case, but as yet no arrests have been made. It is estimated that the goods stolen amounted to about $500.

"SCRAPPY" SHEA IS FOUND GUILTY

Of Helping Beat up James Leach at His Home in Wilbur and is Fined $20 and Sentenced to 30 Days in Jail—His Fellow Scrapper Sought.

Thomas Shea, 21 years old, of Port Ewen, was found guilty after a trial in police court before Judge Schirick this morning of assault in the third degree on James Leach at the latter's home in Wilbur, and was fined $20 and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail. Shea was represented by Chris Flanagan, while John M. Cashin appeared for Mr. Leach.

From the story as brought out on the witness stand, Mr. Leach, who is a man about 50 years of age, was sitting out in his yard at his home, No 91 DeWitt street, Thursday evening between 8 and 9 o'clock when two young men entered the gate. They were Shea and a young man named Malia, who is being sought by the police.

They asked where a family named Whalen lived and Mr. Leach told them. They then tried to enter the Leach home and Mr. Leach bade them be on their way. With that Malia knocked Leach down while Shea assisted in kicking the old man. This was corroborated by a neighbor, John H. Armstrong, of No. 96 DeWitt street, who was out in his garden and saw the brutal assault.

Mr. Armstrong said if he had not come to the rescue of Leach that they would have killed the old man as they had him down on the ground and were both using their fists and feet on him.

Shea testified in his own behalf, and claimed that he did not touch Leach at all, but had simply tried to pull Malia away from the old man and that Malia was the man who beat up Leach.

Shea gave no reason for Malia beating up Mr. Leach, but stated he, himself, was innocent.

His story, however, did not ring true to Judge Schirick, who found him guilty as charged and imposed the sentence stated.

Malia is being sought by the police on a charge of assault in the third degree. He is about the same age as Shea.

This was Shea's second conviction of a crime. He had been found guilty in the town of Esopus of petit larceny in stealing some Ford auto tires, and at that time had been fined $10 by Judge McKenzie, he informed Judge Schirick when asked if this was his first conviction.

Mr. Leach had eight stitches taken to close the wounds in his head, while one eye was badly discolored and his face was bruised. He was also knicked about the body.

WALL ST. WAITED FOR THE PARADE

But an Eleventh-Hour Change of Route Caused it to Turn Back at Academy Green—Merchants Determined to Make Some One Explain—Committee Waits on Mayor.

Who pulled the old stunt at the eleventh hour, is the question that is being asked by uptown business men today concerning the failure of the Sells-Floto circus to parade through the uptown streets. A pall of disappointment hung over Wall and surrounding streets when about 10:30 o'clock news floated uptown that the circus had left the grounds and would not parade all the way uptown but would turn at Academy Green. It had been announced in the morning paper that the line of march would be up Broadway to Clinton avenue, to North Front street, to Wall street, to Pearl, to Albany avenue, thence to Broadway, proceeding to the lower section of the city. Representatives of the morning paper stated positively that this line of march had been given to them by officials of the circus last night.

The business men were highly incensed over what they consider an injustice to the people and merchants of uptown. Immediately on learning that the parade would not go beyond the Academy Green at Albany and Clinton avenues, a committee of eight or nine merchants was organized to induce Mayor Canfield to compel the circus to follow the route announced. The mayor was located but explained that the matter was entirely in the hands of the police department and that he could do nothing for them. He advised them to get in touch with that department. Just as the committee was enroute to find Chief J. Allan Wood the last strains of the steam calliope was heard and the matter was dropped for the time being.

Before noon several officials of the Sells Floto circus were questioned concerning the parade by the representative of The Freeman. A Mr. Wells was seen, he having been named as the one having charge of the parade. Mr. Wells said that he knew nothing about the parade and directed the reporter to another official. This man said that the circus had nothing to do with routing the parade, and this business was always left to the police department in the various cities where the circus appeared. He advised the reporter to see a Mr. Frank Gentry about it. Mr. Gentry would not say anything either way about cutting the line of march. Although he admitted that he had charge of the routing of the parade, yet it was inferred from the few remarks he made that he did not wish to say anything that would displease the uptown merchants or the police department. He would not say when questioned, whether or not the route as appeared in the morning paper was official and given out by him or not.

Chief J. Allan Wood said he knew nothing of the plans to parade through Wall street, or of the change made. He said that with this circus the routing of the parade was made by the circus people, that they claimed that they laid out the line of march in every city where they played and paraded. Chief Wood said that the line of march was cut to shorten the parade, and that the procession did not go to McEntee street, down town, on account of the hill.

The fighting jaws of the uptown business men are set. From their talk it was gleaned that some action would be taken whereby circuses would be compelled to parade through the business streets. Many of the merchants had planned to allow their clerks to see the parade from the store fronts, but owing to the change and the lateness of the news getting uptown this was made impossible. People lined on the curbs on Wall street were informed of the change by policemen and others who had heard of the change previously.

MURAD

THE TURKISH CIGARETTE

"A ROSE by any other name would smell as sweet"—but cigarettes of any other tobacco than Turkish don't smoke as enjoyably.

The reason Murads are demanded by thousands of smokers is that they are made of 100% pure Turkish tobacco—the world's most famous tobacco for cigarettes—and so conceded.

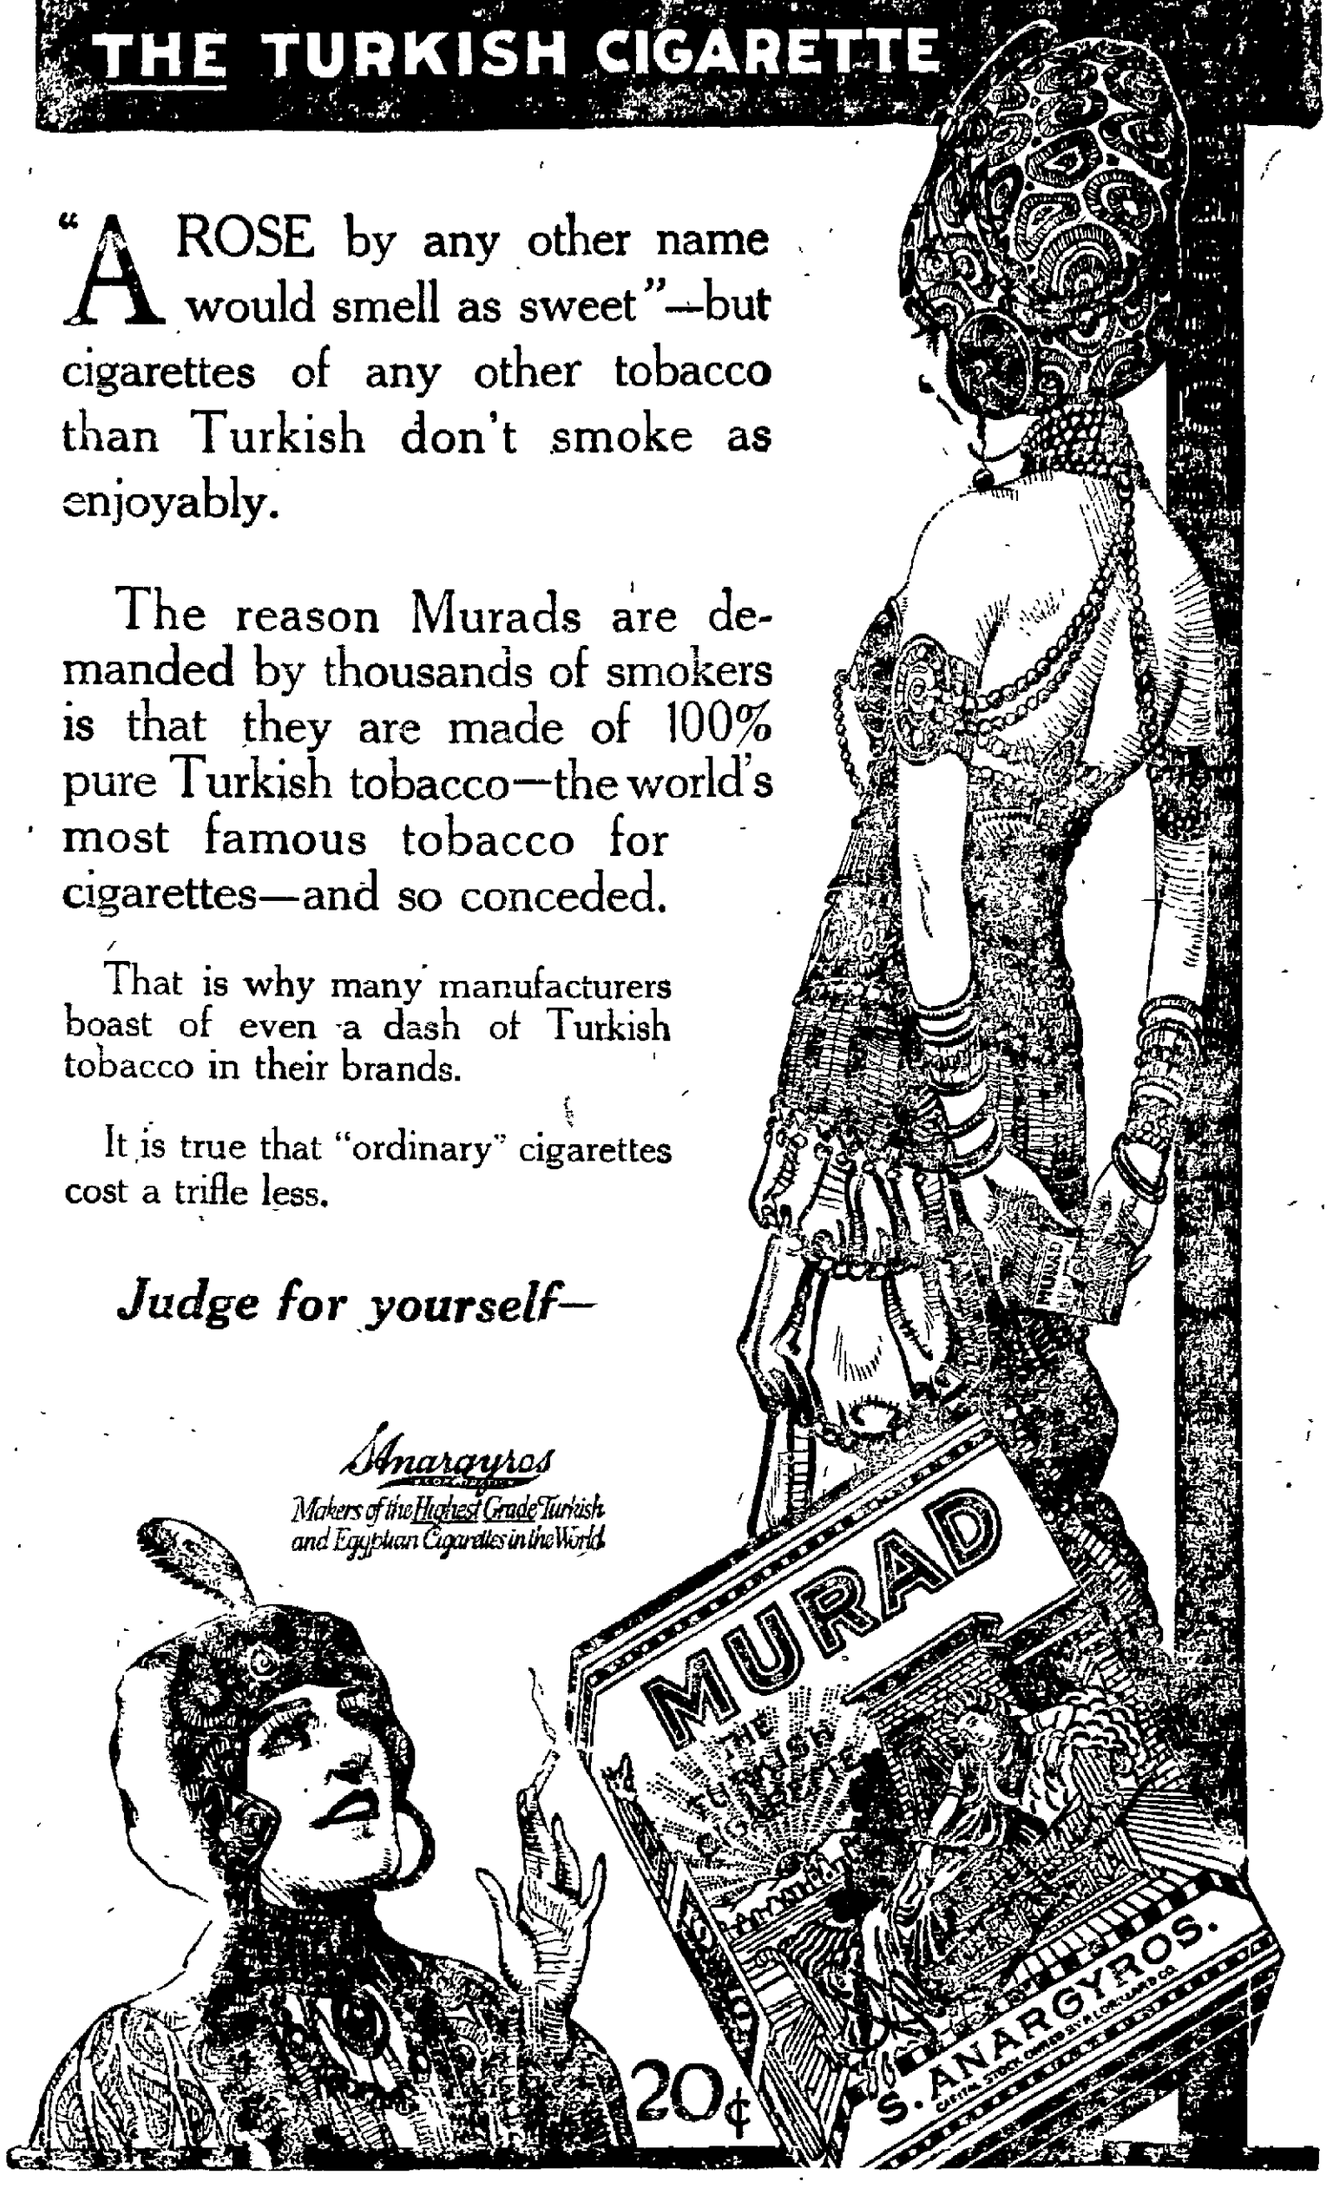

That is why many manufacturers boast of even a dash of Turkish tobacco in their brands.

It is true that "ordinary" cigarettes cost a trifle less.

Tony Gentile, a fruit dealer in the Hotel Ulster, Broadway, on Sunday morning had a narrow escape from being injured and killed on the West Shore crossing when his automobile got stalled on the Broadway tracks which he attempted to cross just as the 11 07 train from New York was coming in and the gates were being lowered The train was flagged by the flagmen at the shanty across the track and the train stopped so that

Now that the Times of London has indicated the danger, other observers will join in apprehension lest the constant presence of the camera will make great men self-conscious at historic moments. If it is hard enough for a man to be perfectly natural and quite himself when his picture is being taken by his friends and his family, what must it be to know that his picture is being taken for the public, and perhaps while he is in motion at that? Fortunately for the great man—and perhaps this is all that saves him from visible self-consciousness—the photographer does not yet shout "Look pleasant, please!" through a megaphone.

Laws of Motion.

The three principles or axioms, known as the laws of motion, which were laid down by Sir Isaac Newton, are: (1) If a body be started in motion, and if no force act upon it, that body will continue in motion in the same direction, and with the same velocity. (2) Change of motion is proportioned to the acting force, and takes place in the direction of the straight line in which the force acts. (3) To every action there is always an equal and contrary reaction; or, the mutual actions of any two bodies are always equal and oppositely directed in the same straight line.

Teasel in Cloth Dressing.

Few people probably have heard of teasel, which is known for the purpose of cloth dressing. The wild teasel is found in English hedges and copses and bears a purple flower in July. The function of the teasel is to raise the nap of the cloth, although in some respect it has been superseded by the use of wire brushes.

As Far as It Goes.

DRESS OF RICH WHITE SATIN

This is a charming dress of white satin. Its corded design and plaited ruffles, floating georgette sleeves, braided hat and a touch of rose at the waist, affords a most acceptable costume for a garden party.

HAT THAT IS EASY TO MAKE

Use Crown From Old Top Piece, Flowers Around Edge, and Bow at the Back.

A hat was sadly needed for the new gray voile frock, with its pattern of rose clusters and its gray georgette frills; but the wardrobe held nothing suitable and extra expenditure on millinery was not desirable, in view of the forthcoming holiday, notes a correspondent.

That evening I dined with a friend. "How do you like my new hat?" she asked, placing on my head an attractive little toque, trimmed with a wreath of flowers and a ribbon bow.

"You see," she continued, "I just took the crown from an old hat, placed the flowers round the edge and the bow at the back, and there you are—a completely different hat."

The effect was so charming that I promptly went home and turned out my wardrobe afresh. A burnt oatmeal straw with a dilapidated brim was easily sacrificed to the knife, and a shot blue and gold ribbon and three cerise roses selected for the trimming. The dull blue touch in the ribbon toned pleasantly with the blue-gray of the voile, and a narrow cerise velvet ribbon, round the waist of the frock, corresponded with the roses.

In making the hat the head lining was put in first and stitched over the edge outside; to cover that the ribbon was put all the way round and tied at the back. The roses were then placed, one in the front center and one at each side, and, with a floating veil thrown over, the hat was finished.

ONE-PIECE PAJAMA OUTFITS

Late Style of Negligee Is Full Length, With Knee Length Mandarin Shaped Coatee.

A very interesting type of negligee brought out by one designer recently consists of full length one-piece pajamas made of flesh-colored or white satin with a knee-length mandarin shaped coatee of georgette in contrasting color, which may be slipped on over the pajamas. The virtue claimed for this garment is that the pajamas may be used as a sleeping garment if desired and by the mere addition of the overblouse it is transformed into a presentable and very becoming boudoir outfit.

The cape or shawl of negligee is also a great favorite this season. It is fashioned very much on the same general lines as the pajama affair just described. A foundation of satin, taffeta, or crepe de chine is topped by a long cape or square shawl with slits cut to serve as armholes. This overgarment is made of sheer material or lace.

The woman who makes her own undergarments will be interested in the fact that the newest petticoats have no opening at back or side. The upper edge is merely run on to an elastic, so the petticoat may be slipped comfortably over the head. In this way the figure is more completely protected and a smoother surface is provided over which the narrow skirts of the present season may be fitted.

Silk Sweaters With Tassels.

Some of the new silk sweaters are finished on the hem with a row of silk tassels in matching color. These tassels are fastened on at one-inch intervals and the effect is charming.

Circles Resemble Vests.

One of the most interesting novelties in the way of accessories are circles of vestlike shape, developed in a combination of satin and fancy cotton.

The Venerable Toad.

Toads often look very old, don't they? Even so, probably you have never imagined that a toad might be 250 years old. Actual records prove that there have been toads of more than 300 years of age, and very likely this estimate has been exceeded.

CONTINUES FIGHT ON TUBERCULOSIS

Rockefeller Foundation Will Not Withdraw Until France Is Ready to Keep Up Work Started in War.

FRENCHMEN TO COME TO OBSERVE OUR METHODS

Foundation Reports on Tuberculosis Work in France in Past Year — Describes Methods Used.

In the third installment of the Review of the work in 1918 of the Rockefeller Foundation, Dr. George E. Vincent, president, thus describes the fight against tuberculosis in France:

The American contribution, since July, 1917, has been a demonstration of organized campaign. Only as dispensaries, hospitals, sanatoria, preventoriums, open air schools, home supervision by visiting nurses, relief, extra food, educational campaigns, committees and government officials are all fitted into a cooperative and unified system can really effective results be secured.

The "Medicinal Tank."

"Do you know the Medicinal Tank?" asks a writer in the March of November 29, 1918. "It is an invention of the Rockefeller Foundation. This tank rolls over the roads of France, bearing significant * * * Behold this tank entering a city—or a village. It does not come unannounced * * * A delegate arrives. He pays visits to all the newspapers and to the municipal, military, governmental and religious authorities * * * the mayor offers a free hall to the Impresario—I mean the delegate. After the hall has been obtained the delegate covers the city with posters.

"In the meantime a train at the station discharges a gentleman lecturer and a lady lecturer. These are accompanied by another lady, the 'demonstrator,' whose task it is to comment on the posters in the exposition room. Finally the automobile truck appears.

"The directors of the International Department of Hygiene of the Rockefeller Foundation are aware that even the best article does not sell unless you 'hit the nail on the head.' Possessors of that excellent, though neglected, commodity known as truth, they find that in spreading it public education is necessary, and that public education, after all, consists in nothing more than applying the art of advertising to the facts of science. This is their harangue brought to us by posters and cinema:

A Speech About Tuberculosis.

"'No one, O Frenchmen, has excelled you in the scientific study of tuberculosis. But it is not enough that your scientists combat this disease; each one of you must take part in the battle, must benefit from the knowledge acquired, and perform in his turn the office of educator. * * * Why do you give your patronage to charlatans? Because they advertise. We have taken advertising away from them and use it in the interests of science. You think of tuberculosis only after you have it. We are doing so make you think of it all the time so that you may protect yourself against its invasion * * * This way, this way, follow the crowd * * * We put medicine within the reach of little children. This way, this way, tell us what you prefer, nursing the nurses of the hospital. Our show saves you from the hospital. We are advertising public health.'

"There is little to add to this description of the educational campaign of the commission during 1918 three traveling exhibits and corps of lecturers visited ten departments, and in the course of 2,000 or more populations gave 875 lectures with demonstrations and exhibits. In the same period 2,125,000 pieces of printed matter, posters, pamphlets, placards, cartoons, were widely distributed throughout the whole of France. A series of twenty-four articles on tuberculosis appeared in thirty-three important provincial newspapers. The commission's publicity material, written by French men and women, and charmingly illustrated by French artists, has set a new standard for popular public health education.

Turning the System Over to the French.

A campaign of extension has reached twenty-seven departments. Representatives of the commission and of the American Red Cross have visited leading towns and cities in a systematic effort to organize local committees and to induce these groups to establish dispensaries as the first step toward a complete plan for control of tuberculosis.

Arrangements have been made to bring to the United States a group of Frenchmen and to afford them an opportunity to observe American institutions and methods. It is expected that in this way leadership will be provided for the assumption of rapidly increasing responsibility for the campaign in France.

Within a reasonable time, therefore, the Foundation expects to withdraw from France, confident that the work will go on until a nation-wide system for combating tuberculosis has become a permanent part of the policy of France.

Smoking in Church.

Sir Walter Scott records how farmers in the county district of Scotland were accustomed to light up as soon as the minister announced the text. Isaac Barrow called "chimney gentlemen," or cowall Bishop Burnet was so loath to part with his pipe that he cut a hole in his hat to support it. Doctor Parr used regularly to smoke in the vestry before his sermon while the congregation was singing. "My people like long hymns," he said, "that I smoke long pipes."

Where They Err.

Men err not so much in present action as in hasty judgment.—Louis Napoleon.

Eastern "Mad-Stones."

In eastern countries rabies is treated by the "tabasheer," or some other form of what are indifferently called "snake stones," or "madstones," and which are believed to be a specific for all forms of poisonous bites or wounds. "Tabasheer" is a porous, stony accretion found in the stalks of bamboo. It was used in Persia so long ago as the tenth century, and is carefully described by the French traveler Tavernier, who visited India in the seventeenth century.

The Most Valuable.

So, day by day, and week by week; so, month after month, and year after year, work on; and in, that process gain strength and symmetry, and nerve and knowledge, that when success, patiently and bravely worked for, shall come, it may find you prepared to receive it and keep it. The development which you will get in this brave and patient labor, will prove itself, in the end, the most valuable of your successes.—J. G. Holland.

Peppies.

A characteristic of the corn poppy, beside its brilliant scarlet coloring, is the large size of its two outer petals, which hide the lesser pair until the bower has opened. Poppies of Flanders, be they corn poppies or other varieties, are not of the oriental species from which opium is derived. The corn poppy, when cultivated, is known as the Shirley poppy. The flower is perennial or annual, according to the variety.

Ancient Admonition.

Thoughtless persons who insist on talking during a musical performance, spoiling the pleasure of those who would listen to the music, we have always with us. It is curious to read that this particular pest was already extant more than 2,000 years ago. In the ancient book "Ecclesiasticus" we read, "Speak, thou that art the elder, for it becometh thee, but with sound judgment, and hinder not music."

Someone Is Lying.

Excerpt of a conversation between Jim Neill and his brother "Juicer," Pike Ewing of the C. R. yard. "The fool kid didn't have sense enough to let go of the bar he had on his shoulder when he felt the floor dropping away from his feet and, of course, when the old magnet added the bar to the under side of the plate it was carrying down the shop, the kid went with it. The worst of it was the craneman couldn't turn off the juice and release the kid without dropping the plate on top of him at the same time, so—"

"I s'pose they had to let the kid hang there and starve, huh?"—Heave Together.

Swinging the Ax.

Uncle Joe Cannon was commenting on a certain governmental bureau. "It's a mighty polite bureau," he said thoughtfully. "Why, they never fire a man in that department. They ask him to tender his resignation. And tendering, you know," said Uncle Joe smiling, "tendering makes it less tough."

Waste in Sewage.

"Give me," said a famous scientist, "the sewage of a big city, and I will return you yearly the superior milk of a hundred thousand cows." The waste suds from woolen factories, which used to pollute hundreds of rivers in new precipitated, and the concretum is pressed into bricks and converted into superior illuminating gas. That the field is far from exhausted is instanced in the estimate that from 600 to 1,000 tons of fine coal are thrown away every day in the ashes of New York. It is not impossible that some one will shortly invent a process for reclaiming this wasted material.

Gifts for All Time.

When we build, let us think that we build forever. Let it not be for present use alone; let our present use accord with it. So our descendants will thank us for—Ruskin.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 7, 1919.

To be convicted merely as a moral leper by an international court would impress the world but would not greatly jar William Hohenzollern who has shown no appreciation of moral values.

Germany never showed an atom of mercy when forcing treaties on other nations, yet when its own turn came seemed to expect to escape without the imposition of a single unwelcome requirement.

It is a good sign that crops are above the average in Germany this year. Perhaps all Germans may realize after a time that raising wheat is a more sensible as well as a more remunerative pursuit than raising Cain.

The English language is highly composite, the shorter words being of Anglo-Saxon origin and the longer derived chiefly from the Latin and Greek. A study of these languages assists greatly in acquiring a real knowledge of our own, as the students of the past well know. One such student, finding his children very deficient in English, although the time formerly given to the classics was supposed to be devoted to "our own language and literature," in the high school they attended, tested the matter recently by submitting to the senior class for definition a list of English words in ordinary use. Shocked by the answers, he sent the same list to about fifty high school superintendents, only to find that the experiments they made brought even more deplorable results. The inevitable conclusion reached was that in spite of the saving of time formerly "wasted on the classics" ignorance of English has increased, and that, as a matter of fact, time was gained instead of lost in the study of Latin and acquiring some acquaintance with Greek.

EXPENSIVE EDUCATION.

Harvard University, already one of the richest of educational institutions, wants $10,000,000 more, partly for erecting dormitories. One of its present dormitories, which houses 500 students, cost $1,500,000 when building was relatively cheap—an investment of $3,000 a year for each student, or more than the average income of the American family. A dormitory for 500 students now would involve an investment of $4,000 for each. "Our universities are extravagant," says a commenting editor. "They are obsessed with the notion that material surroundings are more important than concentrated instruction, with the result that college education in the larger institutions has become unnecessarily expensive."

This is true. Millions and more millions are donated, yet the cost of higher education increases. The state colleges endeavor with some success to help the poor student through cheaply, but what chance is there for the promising young man of small means at the great universities? The one exception is far-off Leland Stanford in California which charges no tuition fees. More and more great universities such as Harvard become impossible for any but rich men's sons. The style of everything is pitched on a scale within reach only of the wealthy. This is not as it should be. What are the great and widely applauded donations for if not to bring the higher education at the best institutions of learning within reach of young men who happen to have more brains than money?

GERMANY'S ATTITUDE.

We can all understand that it was hard for a military nation, after confidently expecting to conquer the world, to bow the knee and accept heavy terms from unbeatable victors, but Germany's attitude has been altogether exceptional. Great nations when facing such painful necessity have achieved self-control and acted with becoming dignity, but for months the Germans have swung from one extreme of furious expressions of indignation to another of silent writhing over their fate. They would beg for milder terms in one breath and in the other denounce the terms violently. Many of them have come so to be literally unable to be brave in their defeat and to be obsessed by the curious persuasion that it was a monstrous impertinence on the part of America and the Allies to have stopped Germany's predatory career at all, let alone to have been guilty of the presumption of attempting to impose unwelcome terms.

The contrast between Germany's behavior in 1919 and that of Spain in 1898 is striking. Spain accepted the inevitable without even a murmur. The difference is that even in the midst of disaster Spain was concerned for her dignity, for her honor—a word which the Germans, lacking in moral sense as well as in dignity, do not appear to know the meaning of. The Germans howled and threatened to the last, the Berlin Tageblatt, for example, declaring on the very day of the signing that Germany would "reject" the treaty and that it will be no more than "a scrap of paper." This unblushing repudiation of solemnly assumed obligations may well be taken by the victors as a warning to be on their guard for years to come.

GIRL SCOUTS CAMP.

Jolly Bunch at Ideal Park—Cold Dips In The Brook.

Up in Ideal Park is a camp of jolly Girl Scouts who left Kingston on Tuesday July 1st. With the help of Miss Delta Boice and the Girl Scout Council of Kingston, it was made possible to have this camp and the girls are thoroughly enjoying it.

Did you ever hear of swimming in a brook "Well! we do it."

Quite deep in some places? "I'll say so!"

That's our favorite camp expression, so don't be surprised.

You should hear some of the camp nick names, "Johnny- on- the-spot," "Hunkus," "Swift," "Pokey," "Dippy," and "Slippery."

Talk about cold feet! Try the camp at night.

Come to think about our appetites, if anyone was to live on left-overs, they'd be dead long ago.

Don't think we play all the time. Oh! no. We hoe gardens, help in the kitchen and do house work.

Oh! Don't you envy us and wish you were a Girl Scout at Kamp Kay Gee Ess.

A Camp Song, "Dips."

There are dips that make us shiver
There are dips that make us blue
There are dips for all ours cares and troubles
There are dips for all our ailments too
There are dips that make us feel quite dippy
There are dips that make us take a dare.
But the dips we take here in the morning
We don't even care what we wear.

Scout Mickey McLaughlin.

CAMP ANAWANA.

Lots of Fun When Boys are Not Picking Fruit.

Camp Anawana, July 4.—Events at Camp Anawana are moving along smoothly in the gentle current of camping affairs. Each boy is putting in his best licks each day at gathering the fruit crop. A great deal of enthusiasm is being shown in the athletic program that is carried out. Each day the boys have their swimming under the supervision of one of the leaders. Later on comes some competitive sports. An athletic meet was carried out with success. An elimination horse shoe tournament has run through with Connelly, Haver, Snyder and Judkins left to decide championship honors.

Last evening was held the most successful athletic event of the camp. Two teams ran a relay race from the camp to the office of the Highland Post and returned to camp with the evening edition of that paper. Twenty boys participated in this and ran the three miles in 8 minutes 55 seconds. The red team, composed of Bailey, Hall, Judkins, Ronk, Munroe, Kukuk, Longyear, Connelly, Anderson and Rowland were the victors.

A future event of great interest will be a baseball game with a nearby girls' camp. This camp of girls has a team that won the championship of the girls' teams of Greater New York.

All the boys are well and happy. A few comic nocturnal escapades held to enliven the spirits of any who begin to feel lonesome or homesick.

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.

July 6, 1899—Suit of Noah Wolven and others against the Ulster & Delaware Railroad for abandoning the Fair street station began before Judge Edwards.

July 6, 1909—Thomas Edwards of Marlborough reported missing.

The Rev. John B. McHugh appointed to pastorate of St. Charles Church in Gardiner.

July 7, 1899.—Death of Miss Allie North.

Jacob McCann had arm cut off by falling under freight train at Foxhall avenue.

Mrs. Elizabeth Post elected librarian of Kingston City Library.

July 7, 1909.—John F. DeFuy died at Greenkill, aged 66 years.

Samuel D. Scudder, Jr., of Kingston, and Henry Ten Hagen of High Falls won state scholarships in Cornell University.

Auto Regulations Violated.

Arrests, and many of them, are due of auto drivers who fail to sound their horns when approaching corners or crossings. There have been a number of narrow escapes by people from being run over in this city lately. The state troopers are doing good work on the county highways but violations of the automobile laws go on daily in this city. Hardly a night passes but autos without headlights can be seen on city streets, and autos are parked along streets without tail lights or headlights lighted, especially close to corners where other autos turn.

Icebergs.

Icebergs do not form at sea, but are masses detached from the glaciers which form on the land and project into the sea, where great blocks break off and float out to sea. There is hardly any limit to the size of these masses, and as ice is lighter than water they may float a long time with a large part of their bulk beneath the surface and melting gradually by contact with warmer water.

MARIE ALEXANDER—A hotel maid servile and abused by day—A Regal vision loved and adored by night—is remarkable character of mystery and amazing contrasts picturing 9 GREAT HEART EMOTIONS EVERY WOMAN HAS.

Loyalty, Pride, Hate, Yearning, Joy, Fear, Anxiety, Desire, Grief.

These are the emotions that follow one another with lightning speed in the heart and mind of Marie Alexander.

Roger meets her first at midnight—a moonlight phantom of the beach—beautiful and bewitching in her elaborate bathing costume; but she runs away.

Again—he dances with her at the grand ball and her gown is stunning; but she disappears.

Then—he finds her in his sister's room—a hotel maid, drab and dismal in the plain livery of a servant.

Who is she? Where did she get her wonderful midnight wardrobe?

"She stole it from me," shrieked a girl guest of the hotel.

And Marie disappears again, and so do three mysterious strangers who have been stopping at the Sea View.

It is many weeks before Roger, desperate in his search for her, gets even the slightest clue. It is a big, official looking envelope. He tears it open, eagerly, greedily, and there, before his eyes, but see—

CARS COLLIDED SEVERAL HURT

Sunday afternoon about 3:45 o'clock Aaron Lippner of Brooklyn, driving a Franklin auto, ran head-on into the Ford car of Anthony DeCicco of East Kingston on the Washington avenue viaduct. According to the report of the accident made to police headquarters by Officer Shader, who investigated the affair, Lipper was in the rear of another car on the viaduct coming toward Kingston and attempted to pass the car ahead. In so doing he ran head-on into the Ford car of DeCicco. In DeCicco's car were Helen DeCicco, 5 years old, who was cut about the ear; Freda Dougherty of 58 Broadway, who was injured about the knee and shoulder, and Mrs. Mary Lawrence of No. 162 North street, who was injured about the c[illegible]. Incidently it might be mentioned that on July 2, Lippner was arrested for speeding by Officer Walker, and gave cash bail of $10 for his appearance later in court, but failed to appear and the bail was forfeited. Both the Franklin and Ford were damaged by the collision, but the Ford was able to proceed under its own power while the Franklin was towed to the Stuyvesant Garage for repairs.

AMERICA'S IMMORTALS

ALEXANDER R. SKINKER,
Captain, 108th Infantry.

Capt. Alexander R. Skinker (deceased) was decorated for conspicuous gallantry in action at Cheppy, France, September 26, 1918. Unwilling to sacrifice his men when his company was held up by terrific machine gun fire from iron pill boxes in the Hindenburg line, Captain Skinker personally led an automatic rifleman and a carrier in an attack on the machine guns. The carrier was killed instantly, but Captain Skinker seized the ammunition and continued through an opening in the barbed wire, feeding the automatic rifle until he was killed, too. His widow lives at 646 Elmwood avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

The hermit thrush is declared to be the most talented and brilliant singer in the world, not even excepting the nightingale, says the American Forestry association, Washington. As musicians all the thrushes are gifted but the hermit thrush is the prize singer of the tribe. The tail of this little bird is of a reddish brown, much brighter than the back and head, while the breast is quite heavily spotted with black. It winters in the Gulf states.

That the city treasurer shall immediately cancel, retire and destroy the bonds so paid, and shall file a certificate in the Ulster county clerk's office stating the amount of the existing bonds and of the new bonds so issued, and make a report to the common council and to the board of education of the amount of bonds sold, and the names of the purchaser or the respective purchasers.

Section Six: Resolved, that the city clerk keep a record in his office of such bonds, the date thereof, the amount and rate of interest, when payable, the name or names of the purchaser or purchasers thereof, and pursuant to what law issued.

Section Seven: Resolved, that there be raised, levied and assessed in the taxes for the respective years when such new bonds become due and payable, a sum sufficient to pay the principal and interest of said bonds in full when the same shall become due and payable as hereinbefore stated; and that the said sum shall be included in the tax budget for such years and shall be raised by tax in the tax levy for said respective years in addition to the amount of taxes otherwise to be raised for said years, and that the said new respective bonds shall be paid out of the respective amounts so raised.

Section Eight: Resolved, that this ordinance shall be published at least twice in each of the official papers of the city of Kingston; and at least ten and not more than thirty days before the sale a statement of the amount, date, denomination and rate of interest thereof, and terms of sale shall be published in the official papers of the city of Kingston.

Section Nine: Resolved, that this ordinance shall take effect immediately after the publication thereof as hereinbefore provided.

I hereby approve the foregoing ordinance.

SCOUTS ENJOY HIKE AT WANGUM

All who were present at the overnight hike held at Camp Wangum the fourth and fifth certainly enjoyed themselves to the utmost, having every minute occupied with test-taking or sports.

We left headquarters at about 10:40 Friday morning on a truck with Scoutmaster DuBois, arriving at Camp Wangum at about 11:20. We set up camp immediately, after which most of the scouts went in swimming. We did not have noon mess until after 1 o'clock and as soon as the camp was cleared a little more we went swimming again. Scout Vernon Beehler passed tests on the merit badge for swimming and it is a safe bet that he will own several merit badges before the summer is over. Many other tests were passed during the afternoon for both second and first class, everyone taking the opportunity of taking such tests as swimming, tracking and knot-tying. During the afternoon several scouts came down from Saugerties on wheels and these soon joined in the swimming and other sports with vigor, after they had pitched their camp. After the evening mess we played several games which Executive Merrill learned while in service, after which we had a camp fire around which we sat while Mr. Merrill read us stories. As soon as it became dark enough we set off our fireworks and at 10 o'clock taps was sounded. We had the privilege of talking until 10:30 as it was then much too hot to sleep and at 10:30 the order was given for quiet.

By this time the mosquitoes of Camp Wangum had begun their offensive and seemed not to have been fed since last year when we were at camp. They were so active that we soon gave up hope of doing much sleeping for the early part of the night. We then moved to another part of the camp where we were not bothered so much. Toward morning it became too chilly for the mosquitoes and we all got some sleep. Those who did not sleep enough made it up Saturday afternoon. Saturday morning we went swimming until time for mess and in the morning after mess some of us went for a hike to Legg's Mills where we hired a boat for three hours and saw most of the creek to Glenerie Falls. We returned to camp at about 1 o'clock and found most of the others in the water again trying to find relief from the heat which reached over a hundred in the shade.

After noon mess we laid around in the shade and those who wished to made up the sleep they had lost the night before. Few tests were passed and up to time for evening mess little was done but lay around in the shade. We started home at 6 o'clock all feeling well pleased with the two days spent in camp in spite of the heat.

We had 22 Scouts present at the camp this time. We are going out there again in two weeks, Saturday and Sunday, July 19 and 20, is the time scheduled for the next trip. We have 50 Scouts at the next trip? You will enjoy it we know. Just ask anyone who was there this time and he will assure you that you could not spend your time better. There is plenty of swimming and an excellent camp in spite of the numerous mosquitoes. We were troubled with them because we did not take mosquito netting. There is an excellent opportunity to pass your tests in any subject you desire.

NEW FORD STARTER.

Sime Wood Don't Use the Old Tail-Twisting Method.

You've heard about Fords with electric starters and you've heard about Fords that were supposed to have run on their reputations but it remained for Sime Wood, genial driver of the city ambulance and police patrol to start a Ford by repeating a few mystic words and a tickling of the transmission or whatever it is that makes a Ford go.

It was the Fourth of July and the subject of Sime's mystic powers was the red devil gas wagon operated by Richard Elmendorf, superintendent of fire alarms. The "red devil" stood in front of police headquarters at the city hall. Dick had been tinkering with the wires, buzzer and other thingumbobs that go to make up Kingston's fire alarm system. As he was preparing to leave in his gas chariot, Sime told him to jump in and he would start the machine. Dick, as the story goes, jumped in and ordered Sime to crank the Ford.

"Put her in gear," ordered Sime.

"Crank it," returned Dick.

"Put her in gear, I said," impatiently retorted the jovial patrol driver.

Dick "put her in gear."

"Now give her a little gas," again ordered Sime.

"Do turn over that crank," pleaded the fire alarm superintendent.

"Give it some gas," bellowed Sime.

Dick gave it some gas. Then Sime went to the rear of the car. Repeating words that sounded something like "hokum pokum, Tarkum pickerum," he gave the car a push. The Ford rolled a few feet, the motor sputtered and Sime gave one of his characteristic laughs.

"Spit! Spit! Spit! Spit! Chug! Chug! Chug! Chug!" It sounded right along side of them. Sime's little starter sure beated thought and words.

Lincoln's "Last Speech"

On the twenty-ninth of May, in 1856, Lincoln made a speech at the first Republican state convention in Illinois that is remembered as Lincoln's "Last Speech." Lincoln, who was one of the delegates, was suggested for governor but he proposed that William Bissell should be nominated instead. The suggestion was accepted and Lincoln addressed the convention for one hour speaking with such fire and eloquence that the scene and said interested reporters forgot to take notes and his great speech was never recorded.

50c Molds Free

Get a Full Set if You Use Jiffy-Jell

Pint Mold—Style—D
For a Jiffy-Jell Salad or Meat Loaf

Individual Molds
A Set of Six for Jiffy-Jell Real-Fruit Desserts

Jiffy-Jell is for salads as well as for desserts. And we offer this 50-cent aluminum mold for use in making salads.

Use Lime Jiffy-Jell for salads. Each package contains a bottle of lime-fruit essence, sealed. Added to Jiffy-Jell it makes a tart, green salad jell.

Some serve it with the salad as a zestful garnish. Some mix the salad into the jell while cooling. With cooked or uncooked vegetables this makes a salad loaf.

A meat loaf is made by mixing in meat scraps. This gives you meat in aspic—an ideal summer cold dish.

We Supply the Mold

Pint Mold, Style D, serves a full package of Lime Jiffy-Jell with the salad or meat mixed in. It makes a flat loaf with six indentations to mark six individual servings.

Send us five end labels from Jiffy-Jell packages—the end labels naming the flavor—and we'll send you this aluminum mold.

Mint Jiffy-Jell contains a vial of mint. It makes a garnish jell, far better than mint sauce, to serve with cold meats or roast lamb.

All Flavors in Liquid Form in Glass

This is a 60-cent gift. These aluminum molds come in sets of six, assorted styles, valued at 10 cents each.

Send us five end labels from Jiffy-Jell packages—the end labels naming the flavor—and we will send the entire set.

Loganberry and Pineapple are two dessert flavors which we particularly want you to try. They are flavors which must be sealed to keep. So they were impossible in old-style gelatine desserts.

In Jiffy-Jell the fruit-juice essence comes in liquid form, in vials. So with all fruit flavors. There is a wealth of the real-fruit flavor, condensed from the fruit itself.

Include Loganberry, Pineapple, Lime and Mint in your purchase of Jiffy-Jell. Learn the delights of these liquid flavors. They have won millions of housewives to Jiffy-Jell.

Spirits of Trees.

The Malayans and other Johore natives believe that each species of tree has a spirit or divinity that presides over its affairs. The spirit of the camphor tree is known by the name of Biram—literally, "a woman." Her resting place is near the tree, and when at night a peculiar noise is heard in the woods resembling that of a cicada, the Biram is believed to be singing and camphor will surely be found in that neighborhood.

Seven Days King.

The "seven days king" was Masaniello (Thomas Aniello), born in 1622. He headed a revolt against the Duke of Arcos, at Naples, July 7, 1647, forced him to abolish the tax on provisions, and for seven days was master of Naples. He was most arrogant and bloodthirsty and was assassinated July 16.

Seeing the Earth Rotate.

If a long pendulum is set swinging with its point of suspension free to turn, the plane of swing will remain fixed while the rotating earth skews around under it. This is the finest demonstration of the earth's rotation, and recently at Wellington, New Zealand, a pendulum only ten feet long showed the rotation with 40 secs. after the swing began.

Forces Within.

Trials without discover forces within. Says Victor Hugo: "There are instincts for all the crises of life." A deep perplexity awakens a flash of insight; a bitter opposition sets the soul on fire; a brave peril opens our eyes to horses and chariots of fire; a severe catastrophe evokes a heroism of which the sufferer had not thought himself capable.—W. L. Watkinson.

SCRIPT CAME BACK

Librettist Writes Humorously of His First Play.

Producer Seemingly Had Forgotten All About Work He Pronounced "Great," and It Was Finally Returned to Composer.

"I never shall forget," said Bide Dudley, author, "the first time I tried to write for the stage. It came about like this. J. J. Rosenthal was staging a musical show with the intention of taking it West. Jake and I had come into contact often, as I liked his brand of cigars. At this particular time he needed a lyric for his show. We met on Broadway and he gave me a cigar.

"'Bide,' he said, 'can you write me a song?'

"'No,' I replied.

"'Good!' Jake almost yelled. 'You're the very guy I'm looking for. All the others say they can write me dozens of songs. That's the trouble with them. They're too cocksure. When you get home tonight write me a lyric on 'Love.' Do I get it tomorrow?'

"'Well, you know, Jake,' I replied, 'originally I was a telegraph operator and then a grain buyer out in Kansas. However, if you want to take a chance, I'm game. I'll write the lyric.'

"That night I fixed up a couple of verses and the next day I handed the finished product to Jake and ran. He phoned me later to say it was great and that it would go into the show immediately. It did. The show went broke on the second step out.

"Jake didn't put all the blame on the song—that is, he said it might have been something else that exploded the show. At any rate, he didn't lose faith in me. Three months later he handed me an old motheaten comedy script and suggested that I make it a musical play. I demurred, but he gave me a cigar, and so I went to work. A widely-known composer called in to do the score, and we labored together a month. Then we submitted the new musical comedy to Jake.

"'It's great,' he said. Then he threw the script in his desk and we went forth expectantly. For a whole year I inspected the billboards closely, but saw nothing that would indicate that Jake had produced the piece. At the end of six months more I received the script in the mail. A man had bought the desk at an auction and found the play in the drawer. All he asked of me was that I return him the price of the postage. I thought that reasonable enough, so he got his stamps back."

Sunlight Not Good Germicide.

Sunlight as a germicide proves to be less efficient and reliable—at least in temperate regions—than has been commonly supposed. In his experiments in Algiers, M. de Laroquette has found that only prolonged or direct exposure to sunlight destroys bacteria, and that its action is chiefly confined to dry surfaces where the bacteria are fully desiccated. Bacteria in liquids are affected only by very intense light, and this only at slight depth. White light is more effective than colored, blue being slightly more powerful than other colors. Bacteria are chiefly killed by luminous rays, and ultra-violet rays have failed to show the bactericidal action so generally credited them, the ultra-red also being inefficient. At best, sunlight acts only at the surface, while layers of fat or muscle prevent even the slight ordinary penetration.

By Naval Precedent.

It is a curious anomaly of the senior service, says the London Daily News, that an officer who attains, as Lord Jellicoe and Sir David Beatty have just attained, the rank of admiral of the fleet, is required by precedent to retire from active command. The rule may have been designed to eliminate old sea dogs who had become too ancient to bite, but it seems singularly foolish to permit its application to men like Jellicoe and Beatty. By the unprecedented rapidity of his promotion, Sir David has finished his sea career at the age of forty-eight—in the prime of his life. The army is free from this senseless precedent, for the rank of field marshal—which is the military equivalent to the rank of admiral of the fleet—was, of course, held during the war by both Lord French and Sir Douglas Haig.

Appropriate gifts were presented to both by the club members.

The beautiful fire works shown at the residence of Dr. G W. Ross on Broadway Friday evening were much appreciated by those who were unable to leave their home.

Chief Executives Censured.

Congress has twice censured a president—Andrew Jackson, in June, 1834, for causing the removal of the government deposits of about ten million dollars from the United States bank the preceding September, and John Tyler, in 1843. Tyler was elected as a Whig, but was really a Democrat; so he was therefore constantly antagonizing the policies of the party which had elected him.

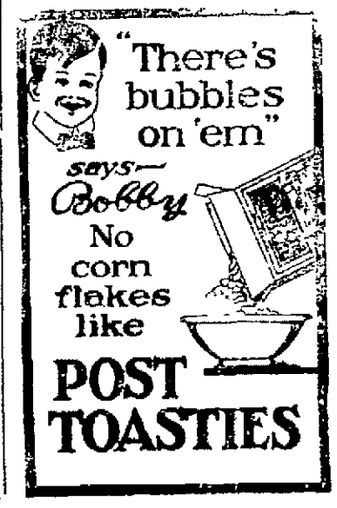

Perfectly Safe.

"Now," said the physician to the poet who had summoned him, "you are not in good health, and I must forbid all brain work." "But, doctor," protested the poet, "may I not write some verses?" "Certainly," the doctor said, "write all the verses you want to."

READ WHAT THE PEOPLE WHO WORK FOR YOU HAVE TO SAY TO YOU

The manufacturer who makes your shoes is working for you. The store that sells you shoes is working for you. So is your grocer and baker and gas company and clothier and every person who makes or sells anything that you buy.

Quite often these people have messages for you. They want to tell you about new goods or changes in styles and prices or give you other information.

It is not practical for them to come and speak to you personally because they have too many customers to serve. So they put their messages in advertisements in your daily newspaper.

It is to your interest to read advertisements. They are published for your benefit. Advertisements keep you informed as to what manufacturers and merchants are doing for you. They help you to buy the right goods at the right time and make the most of your money.

You'll find that business concerns which tell you frankly what they are doing are most to be depended upon. Stores that advertise are progressive stores that have something really worth while to say to you. Manufacturers who advertise their goods have confidence in them; it does not pay to advertise anything that is not good.

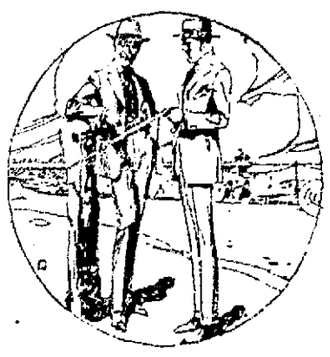

Make a habit of reading advertisements. It is interesting as well as profitable.

SAMSONVILLE.

Samsonville, July 7.—There was such a small congregation at the meting on Thursday evening people must have forgotten the date, but the pastor was present and talked from the 18th chapter of Matthew and claimed the promise that where two or three have met in my name there will I be also. The absent ones missed a profitable talk.

On Thursday evening, July 10th, George W. Grinton, district superintendent of Kingston, is expected to preach. All who wish to hear a good sermon are invited to be present and please come at early lamp light.

Susie Kelder of Pittsfield, Mass., arrived in town on the 3rd and is stopping with her friend, Mildred Moore.

Mrs. Uretta Van Etten is recovering slowly from a painful scalded foot.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Carson and daughter, of South Gilboa, have come to spend a 10 days' vacation with their parents.

Miss Bessie Barringer and friend, Louise Snyder, of New York, expect to leave soon for their summer employment at Haines Falls.

Frank Mick and son, Royal, are stopping for a few days with their uncle, M. H. Shurter.

Justin Shurter's boys are spending some time with their uncles, Walter and Mark Shurter.

Mrs. Carrie Wood of Winchells spent the Fourth at Freeman Every's.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dudley of Olive Bridge spent a few days with H. F. Winchell.

Don't forget the meeting next Thursday night at the church.

With a Proviso.

James was fond of one of his mother's friends, a girl in her twenties. One day, when he had been particularly well entertained by her, he remarked: "Aunt Margie, when I grow up I'm going to marry you." Then he looked at her thoughtfully and added: "That is, if you last long enough."

Do It Now!

The doors of opportunity remain open for years, but they close with a bang, and they never reopen. We are responsible for the good we might do and the world is poorer for our neglect, as no one can do our work. If there is something that needs doing, don't wait till tomorrow! Do it now!

A MIDNIGHT ROMANCE

Is Hathaway Production at Keeney Theater Featuring Anita Stewart.

One of the big productions controlled by the Hathaway theaters will be presented tonight and tomorrow in the new Keeney Theater, where no doubt it will be received with a tremendous ovation as it is only fitting that the biggest and best is none too good for Kingston theater-goers. Anita Stewart is one of the most popular screen stars in picturedom and with Marion Orth's story, "A Midnight Romance" as her starring vehicle, an attraction of merit and extraordinary interest is promised. It is entirely a woman story from the star to author and director. Anita Stewart plays the part of a mysterious beaty, one of the survivors of a shipwreck, who, in spite of her charm, claims to be but a common servant. Slipping away from the hotel (which by the way is actually the palatial Hotel Alexandria in Los Angeles) late one night she meets wealthy young Roger Sloan, played by Jack Holt, while enjoying a lone dip in the surf. Then she disappears. He finds her again in the hotel, clad in shimmering silks. Then trouble starts. Crooks, blackmailers, police.

Saving is not a dull duty. It is a ticket to the land of prosperity Buy W. S. S
